About Foothills Resource Services

Foothills Resource Services (formerly Foothills Diamond Coring) has been a stalwart in the oil and gas industry in Canada and around the world for over four decades. The company began operations in 1965 as a conventional coring service provider in the oil and gas industry and since then has grown to become a leading service provider in conventional, wireline and specialized coring services; a leader in the design and manufacture of coring equipment; a supplier of drill bits and a supplier of preset drilling services and coring rigs for continuous and conventional coring in oil sands, CBM, shale gas and other unconventional exploration opportunities. These include both onshore and offshore projects.

Foothills has grown its business in Canada and internationally by remaining highly competent, and technically innovative in the most rugged conditions.
